James Faith):

God's Business is not another religious book written about business; it is a business book that leverages faith values to help you fulfill the purpose God has for you and your business. The intent is not necessarily to put more God in to your business, but instead to set up your business to have more God come out! Frederick "Coach" West III delves into strategies on how to use the core principles of faith to engage with "clients" at a more fulfilling level, get more from employees, and to set up a business to have the limitless growth and profitability God has commissioned it to have to support His ministries around the world.
